EMPLOYER NEWS

Bury College is proud to work with so many supportive employers

Parkhouse and Whitworth Dental has recently been named as one of our Employer Star Award winners, given as part of National Apprenticeship Week

The Principal Dentist at the practice is in constant communication with Bury College and also offers support and commitment to all of the apprentices working under him. He goes above and beyond what is expected of him.

Navid Tahir, Principal Dentist at Parkhouse and Whitworth Dental Care said:

“Bury College Apprentices have been great additions to our practice over the years. We love training them and seeing them develop.”

Former Bury College apprentice mentors current apprentice

Dylan Frasier-Kelly is a former Bury College apprentice passing on his knowledge and experience to current apprentice, Matthew Worthington.

Matthew’s development within the organisation has been helped thanks to the advice and guidance of Dylan, his Line Manager.

Dylan spoke with great pride about how Matthew has progressed since he started with the organisation: “Matthew is doing amazing with us and working really well with the team.” He added:

“Employing an apprentice is great for your business. In terms of advice, I would try and relate some of the training in the workplace to what the learner will be undertaking during their assessments.”

Bury College apprentice support praised by local Hospital

Wendy Parker, Team Leader at Royal Bolton Hospital based at the Crompton Health Centre, recently praised Bury College for the exceptional support that our Learning and Support Coaches give to our apprentices. Wendy currently works with Jade Crompton, a Leadership and Management apprentice, and believes it is helping her to become a manager of the future.

“You can clearly see that the support Bury College provides to the apprentices has a huge impact. It plays a big part in their development as employees.”
